The estate consists entirely of personal property, such as stocks, bonds and jewelry. Other items of personal property are mentioned, but the petition declares that these may be of no value—special reference being made to a note due Mrs. Mackaye for $5,000.

EDUCATION FIRST NEED OF REPUBLIC

SAYS DR. VANDYKE
Urges Preparedness in
Sermon at U. of V.
Centennial.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 31.—Following eight months of preparation, the University of Virginia centennial celebration opened here today with 5,000 delegates, alumni and invited guests in attendance.

The army of visitors crowded Cabell hall and the new outdoor amphitheater at each of the opening exercises.

As a climax to the day's events the 19 representatives of foreign universities and societies and the 150 American college presidents and faculty members gathered at the University of Virginia to hear Dr. Henry van Dyke, of Princeton university, preach a sermon which denounced Sunday blue laws, infringements on the rights of the individual, the "pestilential disease" of Bergdollism and Brindallism and a system of government which spends more for fleets and armies than for schools and colleges.

Says Jefferson Urged League.
They also heard the Princeton professor state that Jefferson was the first man to propose a league of nations, that he was opposed to "entangling alliances," and that the declaration of independence is a profoundly religious document.

"Popular education is the first and greatest need of a republic," said Dr. van Dyke. "Without wisdom and discretion, the sovereign people are but as a flock of sheep or a mob of wild beasts."

"We are spending more for fleets and armies than for schools and colleges. We are paying our plumbers and carpenters more than our teachers."

10 Per Cent Illiterate.
"We are blindly allowing a generation to grow up in our land, 10 per cent of whom can neither read nor write, and 40 per cent of whom have no real conception of the fundamental rights and duties of freemen. The republic is not safe under such conditions. We must devote more money, brains and effort to the education of our people than to any other national purpose."

"We must cultivate preparedness, not only for the exceptional emergency of war, but also, and more resolutely, for the permanent, normal demands of peace. We must build our national defenses in the character and intelligence of our young manhood and womanhood."

Earlier in the day Dr. William Alexander Barr, dean of Christ Church cathedral, New Orleans, offered a defense of Thomas Jefferson's liberal tendencies in religion.

Opposed Religious Tests.
"One hundred years ago," Dr. Barr stated, "the Virginian, Jefferson, was easily interpreted as a want of sympathy with the Christian faith itself."

Dr. Barr stated that Jefferson was opposed to the religious tests and shibboleths which he conceived as obstructing the most effective work of an educational institution. While the eager and fearless forward gaze has been the glory of Christ's scholars, he said, it has been preserved along with it a due reverence toward the past and a just appreciation of its value to the present.

The younger men of the alumni, particularly those who had seen overseas service, met today in the mechanical laboratory where a military headquarters had been set up to resemble the Virginia European bureau established in Paris during the war. Several were veterans of the Argonne and Belleau Wood and had not held a reunion since the stirring days of 1917 and 1918.

Gov. Westmoreland Davis, of Virginia, and Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the university, welcomed the visitors. They were shown the old home and law offices of former President Jefferson and the personal belongings of Jefferson which are kept as treasured relics in the rotunda.

Present Program Tonight.
Tomorrow delegates will enroll in the rotunda and then march to Cabell hall where they will present greetings from the institutions which they represent. Speakers will include Gov. Davis, Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the university; Dr. Julian A. C. Chandler, president of the College of William and Mary; Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard; Jules Jusserand, French ambassador, and Dr. Albert Ross Hill, president of the University of Missouri. In the evening, the centennial pageant, "The Shadow of the Builder," will be presented.

CONGRESS ADDS GYM TO ROUTINE FOR DAY.
Members of congress are going in for physical culture in the house office building gymnasium where special classes are being organized under Sergeant W. C. Force, of the U. S. marine corps, a new physical director.

They are being urged by a gymnasium committee composed of Representatives Newman, Reed and Britten to join the classes.

"You owe it to yourselves, your family and your government to keep in the best physical conditions possible," is the admonition of the committee members to their colleagues. In communications sent to all members assurance is given that the gymnasium will "make fat men lean and lean men strong; will make hot days feel cool and will tie a can to sleepless nights and lost appetites; will drive away that drowsiness and the grouch will be no more."

TRAPPED BY MIN'S THREE BRITISH DIE.
CORK, May 31.—Marching along a road near Youghal, headed for the rifle range for target practice, a detachment of British soldiers, preceded by a band, strode across a mined spot in the highway today, and when the dust of the explosion cleared three members of the band lay dead and 18 other members of the contingent wounded. Father Roche, a Catholic priest, who was motoring to mass, also was wounded.

Three of the injured soldiers are expected to die. An unidentified mounted civilian is reported to have been killed.
